
WARBURTONS SUSTAINABLE PALM STATEMENT

At Warburtons Ltd, we are fully committed to managing our impact on the environment and supporting the needs of society. As part of this commitment, we acknowledge that we have a role to play in making the use of sustainable palm the norm.

Hard fat is an essential ingredient in the bread making process and we use small quantities of palm to improve our bread quality. Having considered the alternatives from environmental, health and quality perspectives, we believe the solution is not to stop using palm, but to ensure we only purchase palm that is certified as sustainable, with verified systems in place that safeguard both people and nature.

As such, we joined the Roundtable for Sustainable Palm (RSPO) in 2010 and have been active members since. In collaboration with our suppliers, we can confirm that all the palm we purchase is from a certified, sustainable source. We only purchase palm from fully segregated sources, this means that the palm used in the products manufactured by Warburtons, have not been mixed with uncertified, unsustainable sources at any point in the supply chain.

Update January 2022

Due to significant global supply chain issues currently affecting the sourcing of some ingredients, we are currently purchasing a small amount of certified mass balance palm.
